MEMORIAL EVENING HONORS BELOVED DOCTOR, RAISES FUNDS FOR LIBRARY

The late Dr. Jamie Weiner was not only a beloved doctor but also a library patron, Mel Brooks fan and symphony lover. In an evening of remembrance held Jan. 27, 2015, the Palace Theater in downtown Corning showed his favorite film, Blazing Saddles. In lieu of admission and in accordance with his wishes, donations were accepted to benefit the Southeast Steuben County Library.

Dr. Weiner was a practicing physician with the Guthrie Clinic Internal Medicine Department in Corning for many years. "He was well regarded for his keen intellect, appreciation of music, and wonderful sense of humor," Dr. Kathleen A. Hallinan wrote in an email. Hallinan worked with Dr. Weiner and hosted the memorial.

The evening raised $860 for the library. These funds will be used to purchase library materials of all kinds that highlight the symphony.

The Southeast Steuben County Library would like to raise a symbolic glass in remembrance of Dr. Weiner and also thank those who donated funds to the library on this special evening.
